Welcome from the Dean of Graduate Studies

International students add to the rich cultural and ethnic diversity of our campus community and we are delighted to learn of your interest in graduate studies at Rhode Island College.

We invite you to experience quality graduate education and to advance your professional interests. Rhode Island College has over 30 nationally recognized graduate programs taught by extraordinary faculty who bring the excitement of their research and their professional experiences to the classroom. Small graduate classes, the average size is 12, allows students the opportunity to work closely with faculty. In addition, students learn with other committed students, many professionals, who share their enthusiasm and dedication.

Since it is not possible for you to visit and talk to our graduate students you might want to "Meet the Graduates" on our web page. Here students who have finished a graduate program at the College talk about their experiences in their program, in classes, meeting and studying with their peers, and working and conducting research with faculty. You will find this a helpful resource as you consider the best college and program for you http://www.ric.edu/graduatestudies/Pages/Meet-Our-Graduates.aspx It may also be helpful to know that we offer a small number of graduate assistantships that provide a small stipend and a tuition waiver.

To learn more about the college you can access a virtual tour on the main page of the College's web site - http://www.ric.edu/virtualtour/Pages/default.aspx

A link on the Admissions page provides a great introduction to the exciting city of Providence http://www.ric.edu/admissions/Pages/About-Providence.aspx which the BBC recently named one of its Top 21 under-the-radar destinations in the world. http://www.ri.gov/press/view/19559.

Please let us know if we can answer your questions about the college, our graduate programs and the application process. We look forward to hearing from you and to welcoming you to RIC as a graduate student!

Sincerely,
Leslie Schuster, PhD.

Welcome from the International Student Office (ISO)

The International Student Office (ISO) is a resource for international students who are attending or applying to Rhode Island College. The ISO and its advisor, Karina Mascorro (kmascorro@ric.edu) help students with specific questions about U.S. government forms, the process of entering and leaving the country, employment requests, Practical Training, financial needs, taxes, health, housing, as well as academic and personal issues. The office hosts social and cultural activities throughout the year, including coffee hours, parties, and picnics and publishes a monthly newsletter by and for international students.

International Students

For purposes of admission, an international student is defined as a student who is studying or wishes to study in the U.S. on a non-immigrant visa. This definition does not include permanent residents (who can supply a copy of both sides of the resident alien card) or applicants with temporary protected or refugee status. International applicants who are transferring from another U.S. college or university must notify the registrar of the “sending” institution of their plans to transfer to Rhode Island College.

Graduate Program Admission Requirements

1. Completed online application: https://www.applyweb.com/ricg/

2. $50 nonrefundable application fee

3. TOEFL minimum score of 79 web-based (213 computer-based or 550 written) or IELTS minimum score of 6.5. See appendix for English language proficiency testing services.

4. Official copies of all undergraduate and graduate (if applicable) academic records with a certified course-by-course evaluation and English translation from an approved agency (NACES or AICE). See appendix for a partial list of approved agencies.

5. At least three professional reference letters and a personal resume.

6. Some programs require the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) or Miller Analogies Test. Check the individual graduate program for specific requirement: http://www.ric.edu/graduatestudies/Pages/Graduate-Degrees.aspx

7. Upon acceptance and before an I-20 can be issued, students must submit an original Declaration & Certification of Finances Form, verifying the ability to pay education and living expenses for the first academic year of study. This document must be original (no copies), current (within the past 6 months) and certified by bank seal or notary. If you are currently in the United States on an F-1 visa (transferring from another U.S. college or university), notify your previous institution. Complete a new certification of finances and obtain a new I-20 from Rhode Island College. See appendix for the Declaration & Certification of Finances Form.

8. Graduate programs begin review of all completed applications just after the admission deadline. Once the program has made its decisions, applicants are notified by the Dean of the School.

Acquiring your Visa and preparing for travel

* Once you receive an offer of admission, complete and submit your Declaration of Finances Form to Dr. Leslie Schuster, Interim Dean of Graduate Studies. The Records Office will send you an I-20 or DS-2019 form. Bring this form with you when you come to the United States.

* When you receive your I-20 (for F-1 status students) or DS-2019 (for J-1 status students) form check them for accuracy and make an appointment for a visa interview at the United States Consulate nearest you.

* Pay the Student Exchange and Visitor Information System (SEVIS) fee prior to your visa interview ($200 for F-1 students, $180 for J-1 students). This fee and the visa application fee are required. For information on paying the SEVIS fee via mail, go to http://www.ice.gov/sevis/i901/. To pay the SEVIS fee online, go to https://www.fmjfee.com/901fee/index.jsp. Make sure to bring a copy of the SEVIS Fee Receipt to your visa interview.

* Prepare your documents to show to the customs agent at your port of entry. You should have the RIC issued I-20 or DS-2019 form, RIC acceptance letter, passport visa, I-94 Card (this will be given to you on the plane), and your SEVIS Fee Receipt.

Housing

On-campus housing is open to all interested full time graduate students who wish to reside in a residence hall. Suites in Browne Hall have been designated specifically for graduate students. Interested graduate students can sign-up with the Office of Residential Life and Housing by calling (401) 456-8240 or email housing@ric.edu. http://www.ric.edu/graduatestudies/Pages/Graduate-Student-Housing.aspx

Preparing for travel and for the semester

* Get in touch with your advisor about registering for the appropriate courses. Check the Rhode Island College academic calendar so that you know when classes begin and end: http://www.ric.edu/academics/Pages/Academic-Calendar.aspx

* Arrange your travel plans and notify the International Student Office at Rhode Island College. You may email Kmascorro@ric.edu. The office will try to have someone to greet you upon your arrival.

* International students are required to have health insurance while enrolled at the college. For the 2013-2014 year, the cost for college health insurance is $832/semester. If you have proof of other health insurance coverage, the college health insurance plan may be waived. Complete your medical forms for RIC Health Services: http://www.ric.edu/academics/Pages/Academic-Calendar.aspx
English Language Proficiency Testing

For students whose native language is not English, scores on the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) or International English Language Testing System (IELTS) are required. SAT scores may be required for students whose native language is English. Please contact the testing services directly to obtain information about testing sites and dates:

Proof of Funding Requirements for Student Visas

United States Citizenship & Immigration Services require international applicants to provide proof of available funds before an I-20 form can be issued.

Upon acceptance, you must submit an original Declaration & Certification of Finances Form, verifying the ability to pay education and living expenses for the first academic year of study. This document must be original (no copies), current (within the past 6 months) and certified by bank seal or notary. If you are currently in the United States on an F-1 visa (transferring from another U.S. college or university), notify your previous institution and complete a new certification of finances and obtain a new I-20 from Rhode Island College.

Expenses will vary depending on whether you are paying for off-campus housing or are living in a sponsor's/relative's home. Generally certified bank statements from any number of sources (self/relative/sponsor) can be used to verify funding for tuition, fees, room, board and other expenses. A relative/sponsor can verify that your room and will be provided free of charge (please complete attached Affidavit of Sponsor Providing Free Room & Board). In addition, if you are offered employment on campus, you may deduct $4,000 from the total costs. Students are allowed to work on-campus up to 20 hours per week but positions are limited in number. All sources of support must have official documentation and equal at least $16,966 (if you have a relative or sponsor providing free room and board) or $29,266 (if you must pay for your room and board).

Additional acceptable forms of documentation are indicated on the Declaration and Certification of Finances Form.

Holders of student visas are required to be full-time students (minimum of 9 credit hours for graduate students each semester).

Notice of Affirmative Action and Nondiscrimination

Pursuant to the philosophy of the Board of Governors for Higher Education and Rhode Island College and its administration, the College does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, creed, national or ethnic origin, gender, religion, disability, age, sexual orientation, disabled veteran, veteran of the Vietnam era, or citizenship status. This nondiscrimination policy encompasses the operation of the College’s educational programs and activities, including admissions policies, scholarship and loan programs, athletic, and all other programs. It also encompasses the employment of College personnel and contracting by the College for goods and services. Rhode Island College is committed to taking affirmative action to ensure that this nondiscrimination policy is effectively observed in all the College’s endeavors.
Declaration and Certification of Finances Form

For issuance of Certificate of Eligibility (I-20)

This form is required to create your Certificate of Eligibility (I-20). Please print clearly and complete all information. Missing information and supporting documents will delay the issuance of your document.

Please mail completed forms and all required original supporting financial documents to:

Rhode Island College - Graduate Studies
600 Mount Pleasant Avenue
Providence, RI 02908-1991

The Declaration and Certification of Finances Form is required to obtain your I-20. The form and required supporting documentation (see requirements below) must be on file in order for us to issue an I-20. Any combination of personal or sponsor fund sources may be used to show funding, but certified supporting documents are required for each funding source.

The Declaration and Certification of Finances form and bank/sponsor letters must:

♦ Be written in English
♦ Contain original documents and a bank stamp or notary seal
♦ Be issued and certified within the past 6 months
♦ Refer to the total costs in U.S. dollars
